And the color has changed. A: I solved it myself - I read too much in the whole world.. "transalpin" = "my".. so I put it. I'll file a bug. Update: Well, the problem has been solved by gimgunlook himself. If you have the topo for another Garmin model, this will not work. This is a feature not an error. so it's all clear now. These get progressively worse throughout the day and usually last all night. It is bad enough to keep her awake at night, but sometimes she will have a "daytime" headache which will keep her awake throughout the day. She has been taking Tylenol, so she decided to try taking diphenhydramine – the active ingredient in Benadryl. Well, in a perfect world, this would be the perfect solution. Unfortunately, the dosage on the Benadryl bottle is only one-tenth the recommended dosage for this drug. In any event, my mother noticed that the diphenhydramine helped with the headaches somewhat. So, she has been doubling the dose in her attempt to get her through the night without waking up due to pain. This has apparently worked, as she has been sleeping through the night and is now sleeping through the day without being awakened by the headache.A technique for preparing the thoracic duct to perform thoracic duct occlusion in the porcine model.
