how to crack aladdin hardlock dongle for mac'Proud to stand with you against divisive politics', says Barack Obama He made the statement during a speech on race relations at the United States Embassy in the Indian capital, New Delhi. US President Barack Obama's appeal for calm over the killing of Indian engineer Srinivas Kuchibhotla has sent alarm bells ringing in India where the Indian community has been tormented by numerous hate crimes perpetrated by the US-based Indian diaspora. Obama said that he was "proud to stand with" Kuchibhotla's family and the Indian community and he praised the police officer who intervened. Obama made the statement during a speech on race relations at the United States Embassy in the Indian capital, New Delhi. "Like many people in this country, I was deeply saddened to see what happened in Austin last week. And my heart goes out to the members of the Indian community in that community who were targeted simply because they were exercising their freedom to be together," he said. Obama said that he was proud to stand with "Srinivas and his friends and family". "They know that people of many faiths and of different backgrounds are welcome in Austin," he said. "They also know that the easy excuse of claiming that we are living in a post-racial America is just that -- an easy excuse," he said. "We're seeing a rise in domestic terrorism against people simply because of who they are and what they look like," he said. "The divisiveness of our politics only serves to widen the divide and make it harder to tackle the challenges we face," he said. "We're just going to have to keep on working to keep our discourse civil and to make sure that we're always recognizing the circumstances and the context in which these protests and these debates take place," he said. "We can't be silent in the face of discrimination," he said. "We can't just sit back when people try to blame the entire community of Indian Americans for the acts of a few," he said. "We can't let people of all faiths and all backgrounds to be targeted simply because they're exercising their First Amendment rights. "We're a better country than that," he said. Obama said that his fellow Americans have to do their part to ensure that the world knows about it. " 2d92ce491b
