Organizational behavior case study with solutions in the Knowledge, Information and Practice of Organizational Behavior (KIP ORB) course, which is the first and only university-based management-level course that is based on the 8th Edition of the O.B.C.E. The 8th Edition of Organizational Behavior features two completely redesigned and reworked e-portfolios (or "Libraries" in the 8th Edition). These two digital portfolios provide a framework for students to organize their sources, write their essays, and create assessments. The design of these e-portfolios makes it possible to view all content from multiple perspectives. This new approach will help students to explore the material they are reading and do the steps required to successfully complete the requirements of their course. This approach will also have the added benefit of providing the instructor with a more comprehensive view of the progress of the students. The Organizational Behavior course has been completely revamped, but still retains the strong organizational theory, concepts, and technology connections that have been a signature of all O.B. courses. This new edition will continue to build on the strength of the 7th edition in all areas, but will also provide a much more streamlined and focused approach to content and technology. eBook Canadian Organizational Behavior, 8th Edition: A Workbook of Essays (KIP ORB) includes:

- Practical e-portfolios that provide the materials and structure to complete assignments and assignments.
- Online quizzes and online exams that provide immediate feedback on progress and performance.
- Analysis of case studies and supporting learning activities.
- Assignments to demonstrate students' ability to apply their knowledge and understanding to real-world situations.
- An embedded learning management system that guides students through the KIP ORB course and provides a convenient way to organize all materials and communicate with instructors.
