Reveal Sound Spire 1.0.13 18 picone dascariare iQ: Route provider default callback error in AngularJS (Express/MongoDB) I'm currently working on a small project using AngularJS with Node.js, Express and MongoDB. I use this tutorial to try to integrate MongoDB with AngularJS with Node.js. However, there is a new problem I'm facing. When the user is logged in with his/her account and the loadUrl function is called, it goes through the logIn function fine, but whenever it reaches the callback, it generates an error as in the code below: router.js:1437 Uncaught TypeError: Cannot read property 'routeProvider' of null Here is my code: // user.js 'use strict'; module.exports = { login: function(email, password) { return function(req, res, next) { var data = { email: email, password: password }; //TODO: check the connection if (data.email == "email@email.com" && data.password == "12345") { res.redirect('/'); } else { next(); } }; } }; and this is my code in router.js
